MISSION

Grow the company's revenue and improve product performance

PRESENTATION OUTLINE

Data collection from 10 January to 30 June 2023 shows a total revenue of 698,812 from three stores: Lower Manhattan, Hell's Kitchen, and Astoria. Revenue grew 103.8% over 6 months, with June as the best month at 166,500 and February the lowest at 76,100. All three stores perform evenly, with Hell's Kitchen slightly ahead but no major gap. Peak sales occur in the morning between 6 AM and 12 PM across all locations, and coffee plus items priced under $10 drive the majority of revenue.

Store Performance

STORE	TOTAL REVENUE	PERCENTAGE
Hell's Kitchen	$236,511.17	33.80%
Astoria	$232,243.91	33.20%
Lower Manhattan	$239,057.25	32.90%

Key Insights

- All stores are within 1% of each other – The percentage split is nearly equal, meaning growth opportunities exist in all locations. Focus should be on lifting overall performance rather than fixing an underperforming store.
- Revenue is evenly split across all 3 stores – Hell’s Kitchen leads with $236,511 (33.8%), followed closely by Lower Manhattan at $239,057 (32.9%) and Astoria at $232,244 (33.2%). No single store dominates, showing balanced performance.

Revenue Peak

TIME	TIME OF DAY
06:00 - 11:59	Morning
12:00 - 16:59	Afternoon
17:00 - 19:59	Evening
20:00 +	Night

Revenue by Time of Day

Key Insights

- Morning drives the highest revenue – The 06:00–11:59 window generates the most sales by far, close to $80k. This is the peak period for customer traffic and spend.
- Revenue declines steadily after morning – Sales drop by roughly half in the Afternoon and again in the Evening. The Night period shows near-zero revenue, indicating the shop is either closed or sees minimal activity.

Revenue Peak Across All Stores

Time of Day	Lower Manhattan	Hell's Kitchen	Astoria
Morning	$143,902.85	$139,443.30	$104,942.52
Afternoon	$67,141.26	$59,012.43	$78,567.14
Evening	$18,713.87	$35,419.07	$48,734.25
Night	$299.27	$2,636.37

Key Insights

- Morning drives the majority of revenue – All 3 stores see their highest sales in the Morning window. Lower Manhattan leads with $143.9k, followed by Hell’s Kitchen at $139.4k and Astoria at $104.9k.
- Lower Manhattan performs strongest overall – It leads in Morning and Afternoon revenue, making it the top-performing location for peak hours.

Product & Category Analysis

Top 10 Products by Revenue

Revenue by Category

Key Insights

- Coffee drives 70%+ of revenue – The Coffee category is the top revenue generator, with Tea a distant second. The business is heavily dependent on coffee sales.
- Top 4 products generate most of the revenue – Barista Epresso and other brewed coffee variants dominate the Top 10, showing low product diversification and high reliance on core items.

Price Performance

PRICE	DESCRIPTION
$00.00 - $10.00	Cheap
$10.01 - $20.00	Afordable
$20.01 - $30.00	Expensive
$30.01 - $45.00	Luxury

Key Insights

- Higher price tiers contribute minimally – Affordable, Expensive, and Luxury items show very low revenue, indicating limited customer uptake or demand for premium products.
- Cheap items dominate revenue – Products priced $0.00–$10.00 generate the vast majority of sales, around $600k, far exceeding all other price ranges combined.

Recommendations

- Own the morning window

Morning generates the highest revenue across all 3 stores. Align staffing, inventory, and promotions to 6 AM–12 PM to maximize sales during peak traffic.

- Double down on coffee and cheap items

Coffee drives the bulk of revenue, and products priced $0–$10 make up most sales. Keep top coffee SKUs optimized and visible, since they're the core revenue engine.

- Increase basket size with bundles

Low-performing categories like Bakery, Flavours, and Luxury items sell poorly alone. Bundle them with top-selling cheap coffee to boost average order value.

- Balance performance across stores

All 3 locations have nearly equal revenue share. Focus on lifting overall performance with consistent promos and ops standards, rather than fixing one underperformer.

- Test premium products carefully

Affordable, Expensive, and Luxury tiers contribute almost nothing. Run small promos or combos to test demand before expanding the premium menu.
